

Kuala Lumpur is a heady blend of culture, with Malay, Chinese, and Indian influences combining in a rich soup that generates a tremendous sense of vitality. This is evident in KL's continuing reinvention of itself. This compact, well organized city is graced with numerous parks, exotic food markets, mosques, and temples that contrast with ambitious, futuristic developments like the soaring Petronas Towers and the inner-city monorail system. From its humble beginnings as a mining town, KL has never stopped looking to the future.
