

Neonatal specialist Dr. Michael Clark is passionate about saving the lives of premature babies. But the pediatrics department at El Camino General cant provide the care many of his preemies require. Now he wants to build a specialty hospital where he can better offer medical treatment for his young patients. Tammy Crawford is an accomplished geriatrics RN who wants nothing to do with her sister Joellas religious beliefs. Shes independent and doesnt need anyone, including God in pursuing a new job as a nurse practitioner. When she falls in love with the intriguing Michael Clark, she must reconsider her resolve to devote herself completely to her career and not become distracted by a romantic relationship. Now the obstacles are insurmountable. Shes in love with a man from another culture and a different race. Michael acknowledges his growing affection for the beautiful nurse yet cant ignore his brothers deep racial prejudices. Can two people who are as different as night and day find a life together?
